Nominating criteria and instructions:

- Nominating is free and must be completed using this online form by 11:59pm Friday 28 February 2021.
- Your nomination must be completed in one sitting; a partially completed form cannot be saved and reopened at a later date.
- All products and/or technologies must be manufactured and/or commercially available in Australia.

- Please have any supporting documentation (i.e. brochures, photographs, testimonials) ready to upload. No single file should exceed 3MB in size. Any file above that size won't be provided with judging files.
- All nominations must be accompanied by a high-resolution image (at least 1MB in size) suitable for print publication.

By submitting a nomination, you give Prime Creative Media permission to publish all or part of your nomination in Australian Bulk Handling Review or another suitable publication.

Best Practice in Safety

A project or program that emphasises and upholds industry safety standards.

Provide the project name (as you would like it to appear in marketing and communications).

When was the product introduced to market?

Is the program internal to the company, or a marketable offering for the wider industry? Please provide some background on the program.

Nomination must demonstrate practicality of project or program, with examples of implementation in workplaces to be included. (70 points)

Demonstrate differences to other safety programs or projects. (30 points)
